

MSCI Index API

Introducing MSCI Index API, a new way to seamlessly integrate MSCI index data into your workflow. MSCI Index API (application programming interface) is a data delivery solution designed to programmatically retrieve MSCI index data. Our API provides greater control on the data sources you need and supports operational efficiency for the integration of MSCI index data into your investment process.

What does MSCI API offer?

Control: Define what data to download and when

Efficiency: Outsource data calculations to MSCI (e.g., constituent weights)

Flexibility: Uncouple internal processes from changes to MSCI data files

Confidence: Know you have the most up-to-date version of our data

Breadth: Access the full scope of licensed MSCI index data

Extensive data for 400,000+ indexes

- End of day indexes
- Real-time indexes
- Index level attributes
- Index constituents
- Security characteristics
- Corporate Events
- FX rates

Flexibility across multiple dimensions

- Views: Select between “open of market” and “close of market” index views
- Scope: Specify downloads for an individual index or for all indexes
- Period: Availability to download today's data or a selected date in the past

Simplified data processing

- Leverage automation through system-to-system downloads
- Speed time-to-market through immediate access to newly launched indexes
- Helps reduce operational risk by downloading pre-processed data from MSCI
